

Meeting Notes

Creative Director: Gioia Wang

Designer: Nicole Farnsley

- The headline (title) element can use a slightly more stylistic approach rather than center text alignment
- Love the image slides
- There could be a bit more spacing between characters in the paragraphs for readability
- For easier navigation, the navigation bar perhaps could follow as the user scrolls (this especially helps in the mobile view, so the user does not need to scroll all the way back to top)
- I really liked the way you used image as a background for the summary text, maybe you could try that approach for the final
- Remember to adjust alignments and placements for the mobile perspective :) utilizing the hamburger menu would be nice
 - When the view is narrow, still ensure that theres margins for both side of the image slideshow
- This is extra but for the subpages, some visual hierarchy of the information in the paragraphs would also be nice
 - For example, cast members with their roles and pictures divided between cast in grid format
 - Or in the review, comments from different individuals also spaced between eachother
- In general: play around with formatting :)
- Don't forget footer